

SOOP recognizes that the outdoors and our interactions with it have been historically marked as white and privileged. As a student group, we primarily work with latinx communities outside of Stanford and are dedicated to dismantling barriers to accessibility and promoting equity in outdoor spaces. Yet we realize our shortcomings in prioritizing outreach to the BIPOC community. As such, we are committed to educating ourselves, understanding the ways in which outdoor culture causes exclusivity, and uplifting BIPOC voices both inside and outside of the Stanford community.
